

Jain Global occasionally becomes aware of fraudulent websites, third-party applications, and instant messaging chat groups (e.g., WhatsApp, Telegram, WeChat) that are purported to be run by Jain Global or are impersonating our firm or our employees. These illegal schemes use the name and/or trademarks of our company without our authorization to induce people to join a chat group or download a third-party application that is then used to defraud them.

The purpose of this notice is to alert the public to the nature of these fraudulent schemes and to warn the public that these third-party schemes are illegal and not authorized by Jain Global. Jain Global is not in any way associated with these fraudulent and illegal schemes.

Jain Global and its affiliated advisors manage private investment funds that are not offered to the general public and our staff do not conduct business through these chat groups or third-party applications and websites.

Our employees do not offer investment advice or make investment recommendations to the general public and do not participate in social media or messaging groups that do so. Jain Global does not have any mobile applications or official channels on third-party applications. If someone offers you investment advice purporting to come from Jain Global or a Jain Global employee through any website, third party application, instant messaging chat group, or email, it is highly likely to be a fraudulent scheme.

Jain Global assumes no responsibility to inform or update the general public of any identified misuse of our name and brand, nor does Jain Global accept any liability for any direct, indirect, incidental or consequential loss or damage arising out of or in connection with any reliance on us to address a misuse of our name and brand.
